Sharp Drop In 1974 Traffic Death Toll

RICHMOND - The tentative 1974 traffic death toll for Virginia stands at 1,046, or 174 less than the 1,220 of 1973, Colonel H. W. Burgess, Supt. of State Police, reported.

Colonel Burgess noted that if late reports and deaths of persons now carried as injured do not raise the 1974 figure above the 1,050 of 1964 will be Virginia's lowest traffic death toll since the 989 of 1963. However, he noted that this is unlikely and that 1974 will probably be the best year since 1965, which saw 1,062 deaths.

Deaths of pedestrians were down from 197 to 194 and of bicyclists from 22 to 15. Deaths of motorcyclists were up from 59 to 60 and of servicemen from 43 to 49.

Considerable monthly reductions were obtained in Feb. (90-51), May (122-67) and September (128-82) but July set an all time record of 124. The mileage death rate, or deaths per each 100 million miles of vehicular travel, was 3.1 to compare well with the national average of 3.5. Virginia traffic volumes were down an estimated 4.5 percent.

Colonel Burgess said that while the 55 mile per hour speed limit is given credit for the death reduction, there were certain other factors the exact effects of which can no more be pinpointed than those of the 55 limit. Travel was down, seatbelt usage is increasing, almost all young drivers are products of high school driver education courses, Interstate construction mileage increased, many older drivers have completed the National Safety Council's Defensive Driving Course, availability and effectiveness of emergency medical services have drastically heightened and most effective measures against the drinking driver were obtained in 1972 and 1973.

CONTRACTOR REMINDERS

Contractors or subcontractors are reminded that if they are engaged in the construction of buildings, highways, sewer, or structure or any removal, grading or improvement, then they must furnish satisfactory proof to such inspector or authority responsible for the same that he is duly registered under the terms of Chapter 54 of the "Code of Virginia."

Paragraph 54-138 specifically prohibits the issuance of building permits unless the contractor or subcontractor has furnished proof that he is exempt from the provisions of Chapter 54 of the "Code of Virginia" or is duly registered in accordance with same.

Consequently the Office of Building and Housing will refuse to grant building permits until assured that the provisions of the above referenced Chapter of the "Code of Virginia" are complied with.

A Salute To F. L. Murphy

Appomattox salutes Fitzhugh Lee Murphy on his 89th birthday!

For fifty years Mr. Murphy has made outstanding contributions to the citizens of the county as a person, as a businessman, as a citizen, and as a leader in his church. Never too tired or too busy to listen to those who needed a friend, Mr. Murphy shared his wisdom and his resources with those who appealed to him for help.

A native son of Pittsylvania County, the second of seven children born to Stephen Booker and Minervia Abbott Murphy, he was reared on a farm near Chalk Level where he later owned and operated a county store for 15 years. After the death of his first wife, Gladys Angle Murphy, and his son, James Campbell Murphy, his health failed and his years as a merchant ended.

Little did he realize how fate would intervene on that rainy day in 1924 when he stopped at Babcock's Store as a Black Prince Overall salesman. With a chuckle, Mr. Murphy recalled that the man sweeping the floor, whom he later knew as Bradley Babcock, said, "see the lady up in the office, she does the buying."

She didn't buy anything that day but she said 'come back'". So it was that Mr. Fitz met Miss Mary in 1924.

In 1925, Mary Hester Babcock and Fitzhugh Lee Murphy were married and since that time Appomattox has been his home.

At age 65, after retiring as a leading grocery salesman for Gilbert Grocery and M. W. Callaham and Sons, Mr. Murphy had more time to devot to farming, hunting quail, concerns with a growing Appomattox, and to helping Miss Mary around the store.

Always an avid sportsman, this fisherman who casts a fine line, this hunter who bagged the quail says, "I use to wonder what in the world I would do if I got too old to hunt, but I find that nature takes care of that."

During the interval of time spanning the past fifty years, even though he was a cattle farmer with grain and tobacco crops to care for, Mr. Murphy found the time to give fifty years of active participating membership to Liberty Baptist Church, having served as a Sunday School teacher, Assistant Superintendent, and as a Deacon. For 13 years he represented the Southside District of the County on the Board of Supervisors, and for 24 years he was President of Farmers National Bank and a member of the Board of Directors.

Since the death of Mrs. Murphy, Mr. Murphy's sister, Mrs. Katie Carter, has resided with him at his home in Appomattox.

The citizens of Appomattox County proudly salute you, Fitzhugh Lee Murphy, on this your 89th birthday!
